Supermirror Electric Radiator

Description

Supermirror - Now available in 'Electric-Only'. It is now possible to benefit from the stunning Gong designs following the introduction of an 'electric-only' version.

The highly polished stainless steel cover creates a mirrored effect that keeps people guessing as to whether it is a radiator at all.

We have seen these installed in almost every room in the house, but they work spectacularly in areas where natural light needs to be channelled, such as in dark hallway or kitchen. Alternatively, when used for conservatory heating, it is a great way to bring the garden inside.

You can control your Gong electric radiator with a wireless receiver which can be concealed within the wiring box on the wall and an analogue or digital room thermostat which can control up to 16 radiators from one thermostat. The digital system with wi-fi can be controlled through an app on your smart phone giving full controllability in or outside your home.

Please note : the models listed here include the wireless receiver. You are then free to choose the level of controllability you require by adding either the individual room thermostats and/or the app. Alternatively if you simply want an on/off version we can supply without the receivers.
